

Clinton Raminhos

Strategic Wellbeing Counsellor

MBACP Dip Couns

Clinton Raminhos has experience working in various corporate settings in a range of roles including management. Before retraining to be a psychotherapeutic counsellor he was working in IT delivering application support, development, and rollout of upgrades for Nuffield Health, the UK's largest healthcare charity and so understands first hand some of the pressures employees face today in a fast-paced technological world.

He has previously worked with clients at the Metanoia Counselling Psychotherapy Service (MCPS) and Wimbledon Guild Counselling Service (WGCS) and has experience working as part of a multidisciplinary team providing complex care at an NHS Psychiatric Hospital (acute wards) in London.

Clinton runs a successful private practice working with individuals and couples. He also works in collaboration with Duty to Care providing psychotherapeutic support for NHS healthcare professionals, and with Strategic Wellbeing providing counselling services to corporate organisations. He has experience working with individuals and couples and has experience in LGBTQ+ and GRSD counselling and therapy.
